ABSTRACT

The survey is designed to provide a service to the public as well as to the institutions. By compiling, publishing, and distributing the information received from the schools during the poll, WICHE enables students and would-be-students seeking admission to locate and apply to institutions still having vacancies. Similarly, institutions are able to receive applicants in order to fill otherwise empty spaces in their student bodies. In the current survey, 447 institutions were polled; of this number 256 responded (57.6%). Responding institutions reported 129,778 openings, in terms of actual numerical estimates. It is necessary to remember that this final total, as well as the totals given for individual states, will represent minimum openings only. The trend toward "open admissions" policies is increasing among western colleges and universities. In the current survey, 81 two- and four-year schools indicated that they employ such a policy with respect to enrollment. We were able to assign numerical estimates toward arriving at state vacancy totals only when they were given by the institutions. But most open admissions policies did not allow for numerical estimates, hence state totals are minimums. (Author)

THE COLLEGE VACANCY SURVEY

Each May the office of Special Higher Education Programs at WICHE conducts the College Vacancy Survey among institutions of postsecondary education in the 13 western states.* WICHE polls the offices of Admissions and Records in order to determine the location and number of vacancies, freshmen and transfer students, for the following Fall term.

The Survey is designed to provide a service to the public as well as to the institutions. By compiling, publishing, and distributing the information received from the schools during the poll, WICHE enables students and would-be-students seeking admission to locate and apply to institutions still having vacancies. Similarly, institutions are able to receive applicants in order to fill otherwise empty spaces in their student bodies.

In the current survey, 447 institutions were polled; of this number, 256 schools responded (57.6%). Responding institutions reported 129,778 openings, in terms of actual numerical estimates. Please remember that this final total, as well as the totals given for individual states, will represent minimum openings only. The trend toward "open admissions" policies is increasing among western colleges and universities. In the current survey, 81 two- and four-year schools indicated that they employ such a policy with respect to enrollment. We were able to assign numerical estimates toward arriving at state vacancy totals only when they were given by the institutions. But most open admissions policies did not allow for numerical estimates, hence state totals are minimums.

Please see footnotes, following the data in chart format, to find those institutions that have stated a policy in "open admissions."

GUIDELINES FOR USING THE SURVEY

Please read the following information to facilitate your use of the Survey.

1. Categories: Colleges and universities are listed alphabetically by state and are divided into two- and four-year categories within each state. Vacancies are reported for both freshmen and transfer students. Within each of these divisions, vacancies are specified for commuter and dormitory students.

*WICHE states include Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

The definition of "open admissions" may vary slightly among institutions. It does, however, most often refer to policies that expand access in education, allowing anyone with a high school diploma or its equivalent to be admitted to the institution. (Yung-mei Tsai and Paul Wing, September 1972).

2. Footnotes: An asterisk will appear in the first column of the chart, immediately after the name of the institution, when there is additional information relating to the institution's policies or vacancies. Footnotes are to be found after the charts.

3. Making Application for Admission: Persons wishing to make application to an institution listed in this Survey report are required to follow regular admission procedures for that institution. These persons should make contact directly with Admissions offices at the institutions of their choice. Institutions will, in turn, make decisions about admitting students on the basis of regular admissions criteria. Prospective students are reminded that they should not reapply to any institution that has already denied them admission.
